

Creating Innovative Solutions that Address Real Problems

✓

I want people to think 'Wow that's somewhere I want to work'.

According to our latest survey, employees feel they don't have a voice.

✓

How can we keep the right candidates interested in our application process?

Is there a way I can train new recruits at a distance so that they're ready to hit the ground running?

✓

Employee's mental and emotional wellbeing is a huge concern. I need to create something that can make a difference, but I'm not sure what it could be.

I need to roll out mandatory compliance training, but I just know people are going to be uninterested in it. What can I do to bring it to life?

✓

We're restructuring and I need to develop management in real time.

Employee turnover is costing so much at a time where we need to reduce expenditure.

✓

How could we improve awareness of new protocols and policies?

I need a platform for communicating change and getting people excited about it.

✓

How can I adapt our graduate programme to a digital environment?

We need the team to really embody our company values.

✓

How can I help a remote workforce feel connected and part of something?

How can I help people feel like they have a future at this company against such uncertainty?

✓

We really need to improve performance in order to keep going as a business. How can we motivate people at such a complicated time?

Everyone is quite happy working from home but we're going to need to return to the office soon. How can I help change attitudes and behaviours?
